

ARGUE SHERIFF MATTER BEFORE COURT MONDAY

Court Hands Down Decision Giving $3,000 Verdict To Philadelphia.

Arguments on a motion to quash proceedings brought by G. D. Morrison, Straban township, contestant for the position of sheriff of Adams county, were heard by President Judge D. P. McPherson at a session of argument court Monday afternoon.

For an hour and a half, Charles S. Duncan, Esq., and George J. Benner, Esq., attorneys for Morrison, and J. Donald Swope, Esq., chief counsel for John C. Shealer, the sheriff whose election is being contested by the Straban township man, held the floor.

After hearing arguments from each of the three attorneys for and against the motion to quash the proceedings against Shealer, Judge McPherson took up all papers in the case under advisement. His decision is likely at a session of argument court October 20.

It was argued by Mr. Swope in behalf of the incumbent that the affidavit made to the petition was not sufficient to confer jurisdiction upon the local court, while it was upheld by Messrs. Duncan and Benner that the affidavit taken, together with the statements in the petition, were sufficient to give jurisdiction in the local courts.

Refuses New Trial

Judge McPherson handed down several opinions during the session of court Monday. The most important of these was that which over-ruled the motion for a new trial in the case of John H. Wolf, Philadelphia, against C. A. Spencer, of Greensburg, at the same time directing judgment to be issued against Spencer in favor of Wolf in the amount of $3,000, the amount awarded Wolf by a jury at a recent session of court when the case was tried.

The case of Wolf vs. Spencer was the outgrowth of an automobile accident on the Lincoln Highway, near McKnightstown on September 1, 1922, in which Wolf suffered severe injuries and in which the cars of both the plaintiff and the defendant were badly damaged.

Gets $3,000 Verdict

At a recent term of court, the case was tried and a jury returned a verdict giving Wolf $3,000. Motion was immediately made for a new trial and arguments on this motion were subsequently heard by Judge McPherson.

In the case of Richard M. McKee, York, against S. F. Snyder, Gettysburg, to recover on a certain contract, the court handed down a decision on Mr. Snyder's motion to strike off the plaintiff's amended statement of claim. The court directed that the plaintiff's amended statement of claim be stricken off, the plaintiff, however, to have the right to file a newly amended statement in accordance with the conclusions of the opinion, within fifteen days.

This case has not yet come to trial.

Other Business

Exceptions taken to the report of the viewers on the building of a public road in Menallen township from point in road from Bendersville to Gardner to point in road from Route 4 the Bendersville-Wenkville road were dismissed and the report of the viewers confirmed. Charles S. Duncan, Esq., was attorney for the exceptants, while Charles S. Butt, Esq., was counsel for the petitioners.

In the common pleas division, Judge McPherson handed down an absolute decree in divorce to Robert Godfrey, of Littlestown, against his wife, Esther Anna Godfrey. Godfrey charged desertion.

In the quarter sessions section, George Dickson, of this county, drew a suspended sentence on a charge of larceny when he entered a plea of guilty before Judge McPherson.

Former Gettysburg Attorney Returns

McConaughy "Mack" Wilson, a native of Gettysburg and former member of the Adams County Bar Association, now located in Missouri, is spending a few days visiting old friends here. Two daughters accompanied him to Gettysburg. Mr. Wilson was an active attorney-at-law here until he moved to Missouri more than forty years ago. He was defeated in a heated political contest for district attorney for Adams county by a very narrow margin by Judge S. McC. Swope some years before he left here.

K. C. COUNCIL AT McSHERRYSTOWN TO BE INSTALLED

Institution of a council of the Knights of Columbus will take place in McSherrystown October 12, according to information received by members of the Gettysburg council. There are between 90 and 100 candidates already enrolled for the McSherrystown Council, it is learned here.

The first degree will be given by the Chambersburg Council and the second degree by Hanover Council. Those degrees will be given the day of the institution, and the third degree will be conferred by Leo Griffith, of Pittsburgh, state deputy of Pennsylvania.

Seventy-five per cent of the members of the Gettysburg Council are expected to take part in the institution exercises, according to officers of the council here. There will be a banquet after the installation, in the evening.

The next meeting of Gettysburg Council, Knights of Columbus, will be held Thursday evening, September 25, in the basement of Xavier Hall. William McSherry, Esq., is Grand Knight of the Gettysburg Council.

ICE CREAM FACTS GIVEN ROTARIANS

E. N. Hershey, Prominent Harrisburg Manufacturer, Is Speaker Before Gettysburg Club.

Ice cream, its history and evolution and the care that must be exercised in its manufacture provided the subject for an interesting address before the Gettysburg Rotary Club, at its regular weekly meeting at Hotel Hoffman, Monday evening, by Engle N. Hershey, member of the firm of the Hershey Creamery Company, Harrisburg, one of the largest ice cream manufacturing concerns in this section of the state.

Mr. Hershey said that ice cream was first made in 1871 and the output gradually increased yearly until it reached 80,000,000 gallons in this country in 1909, a total of three quarts for every person. In 1913, the consumption by the American public was 173,000,000 gallons a year, or one and three-quarter gallons per capita, while last year the enormous output of three hundred million gallons was reached, with indications that this year the consumption will go considerably beyond that.

John Spangler In Charge

The meeting was in charge of Rotarian John Spangler, Chambersburg street restaurateur, and agent for Hershey ice cream in Gettysburg. Mr. Hershey, himself a Rotarian and member of the Harrisburg Club, after being introduced by Mr. Spangler, gave figures concerning the production of milk, the chief ingredient in the manufacture of ice cream. In 1921, he said, the total value of the dairy product in America was two billion, four hundred and ten million dollars, while one-fifth of the average family budget today goes for dairy products.

The first ice cream freezer used had a capacity of five quarts a day. Today, large trucks are constantly leaving the ice cream plant loaded, to (Continued on Second Page)

C. C. Culp Reelected Brotherhood Head

C. C. Culp, purchasing agent at the Gettysburg furniture factories, was reelected president of the Brotherhood of St. James Lutheran church, at a meeting, Monday evening, at the home of George Plantz, Gettysburg R. D. Other officers elected were:

Vice president, C. D. Stallsmith; secretary, Lee Mumper; treasurer, Percy Miller. Light refreshments were served after the meeting. The next regular monthly meeting will be held at the home of Harry Stouffer, Cashtown.

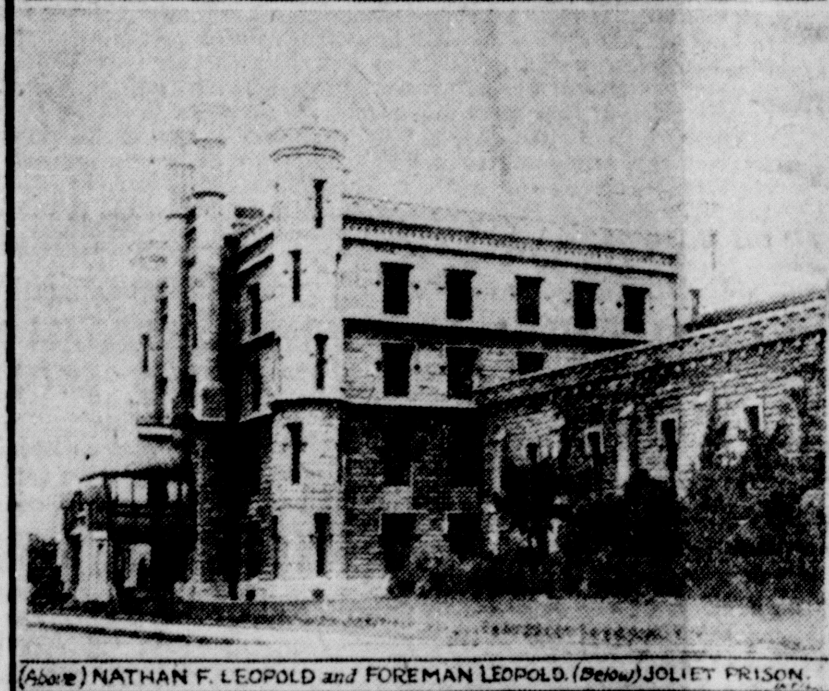

Upwards of 40 members attended the meeting Monday evening. Dr. John Zinn, former Gettysburgian, who has returned to take the chair in Chemistry at Gettysburg College, was a speaker and was afterward elected to membership in the Brotherhood. He told of the successful work the Brotherhood is doing in Worcester, Massachusetts, whence he came to Gettysburg, particular in civic activities and in raising the standard of the public schools.

SEEK BOYS BAND FOR G. O. P. MEET

Welcoming Party To Go To Abbotstown And Escort Caravan To Gettysburg; Meet At 11 O'clock.

Decision to engage the Protectorate Band, of Abbotstown, to furnish music to greet the Coolidge-Dawes Lincoln Tour, which is to stop in Gettysburg Thursday morning, was reached at a meeting of Republicans at the Republican headquarters on Baltimore street, Monday evening.

All Republicans in the county, having automobiles, are urged to meet at Natural Springs Park, one mile east of Gettysburg on the Lincoln Highway, where the welcoming party will be made up. The local party will then go to Abbotstown to meet the campaign caravan, which is expected to reach there at 10 o'clock.

The Protectorate Band, composed of 26 boys at the Paradise Protectorate, Abbotstown, will greet the caravan and then, accompany the tourists to Gettysburg where they will play in Center Square for the meeting, which has been announced for 11 o'clock.

Pennants designating the local escorting party have been received here and will be given to the drivers of the cars while the party is being made up at Natural Springs Park. The pennants bear the words "Official car, Coolidge-Dawes Lincoln Tour, 1924."

REPUBLICANS TO ELECT OFFICERS

Annual election of officers will be the most important item of business to come before a meeting of the Republican Club, announced for Saturday evening, September 20, at Republican headquarters on Baltimore street. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

In addition to the election of officers, plans for the campaign for the November election will be mapped out and an offensive arranged to bring every Republican voter—man and woman—to the polls on November 4. Officers of the Republican Club at present are: Harry Koch, president; E. C. Moser, treasurer, and Danner Wierman, secretary.

M'MILLAN HOME 'FROZEN NORTH'

Famous Explorer Returns To Tell Home Folks About "Eskimo Flappers" In Far North.

(By Associated Press.) Sydney, N. S., Sept. 16.—Captain Donald B. MacMillan, explorer, has brought his vessel the Bowdoin to anchor in this port, after 15 months in the far north. Today he told of Eskimo flappers and white Indians and the amazement of the Eskimos at motion pictures.

"The Eskimo flappers haven't bobbed their hair yet, but they like to smoke cigarettes," MacMillan said. Four Eskimos accompanied the explorer on his exploration together with seventy dogs. Among the natives was Took-a-suk. Dr. Cook's guide. Captain MacMillan said that Cook is well remembered by the natives who laugh at his claim, declaring that he spent the winter on Jones' sound, 500 miles south of the North Pole.

MacMillan said he planned to go back into the Polar regions next year.

SECRETARY POST STILL UNFILLED

Directors Of Chamber Of Commerce Take Two Applications Under Advisement; Men Appear.

ASK $3,000 SALARY

Two prospective secretaries were interviewed, but no decision was reached on the selection of either of them for the post here, by directors of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting at the Hotel Gettysburg, Monday evening.

Three men, trained in secretarial work, were invited to personally present their qualifications at the meeting, but J. G. Dougherty, of Hudson, New York, sent word that "owing to a change in circumstances" it would be impossible for him to consider the secretarial post here.

F. McL. Mantz, of Lancaster, and Wesley B. Foss, of Berwick, responded to the directors' invitation to come to Gettysburg and present their qualifications for the position of secretary in the revised and enlarged Chamber of Commerce which has resulted from the recent drive for members.

2 Years At Lancaster

Mr. Mantz, who is associate secretary of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, was interviewed first. He said he will have been in his present position two years in November and gave as his reason for wanting to make a change a desire to take over the secretarial reins of a live Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Foss is secretary of the Berwick Chamber of Commerce and has been filling that position for the past six months.

Both men are single and both asked a salary of $3,000 a year. But each expressed a willingness to pare down this figure, which, it is believed, was the maximum in both instances. They were told, however, that the maximum the local chamber could afford to pay a man, with only a limited knowledge of the duties of secretary, is $2,000.

Favorably Received Both Mr. Mantz and Mr. Foss were favorably received by the directors and both were considered likely candidates for the position, if they could be secured within the figure set by the directors. Both men were told to take the offer under advisement and that the directors would do the same, a decision to be reached later.

It is thought possible that a third man will be interviewed before decision is made, the directors hoping to secure the best man possible for the position.

Before interviewing Mr. Mantz and Mr. Foss, C. W. Cook, president of the chamber, appointed his committees and committee chairmen for the ensuing year.

Other business transacted included the retention of William Arch McClean, Esq., as attorney for the chamber for the period of one year. Mr. McClean has agreed to serve the chamber without cost, and at the same (Continued on Second Page.)

LEGION ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION TO BE BIG AFFAIR

Further discussion of the plans for an Armistice Day celebration, the details of which will be announced later, consumed the greater part of the regular session of the Albert Lentz Post, the American Legion, last evening in the post rooms.

The general central committee is selecting the various sub-committees to act in cooperation with the Armistice Day committee in furthering the move for the biggest and best celebration ever held in Adams county, and, if the plans as drafted by the committee and approved by the Legionnaires a week ago are promulgated successfully, Gettysburg and Adams county are in store for an unusual demonstration.

Within the next few days, a complete detailed sketch of the proposed proceedings for November 11th will be published together with the announcement of the members of the various sub-committees.

Give Me Service Or Pay My Bills

Shades of the land of the midnight sun, where days are six months long—slow train through Arkansas, dog-sleds, thick-mosses in January, and a broken down rattler seventeen miles from nowhere, were brought home to a Gettysburgian this morning.

A postal card, post-marked "Gettysburg, Pa., Aug. 1, 1924, 10:30 a. m.," mailed from the office of the Gettysburg Electric Company, was received this morning at 9:58 a. m. from the local office. It was the regular monthly electric bill and the receipt of the card probably accounts for the recipient's home being in darkness since August 10.

CITIZENS SEEK TO SAVE YOUTH

19-Year-Old Boy, Sentenced To Hang In Chicago, Petitions For Clemency From Governor.

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Shortly before Bernard Grant, sentenced to hang October 17 for murder, signed a petition to Governor Small, pleading for clemency, his attorneys received a telegram today from Dr. Agnew Lewis, of St. Cloud Minnesota saying that citizens of St. Cloud would petition the governor of Illinois to spare the boy's life.

The movement was started after Judge Caverly sentenced Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb to life imprisonment for murder.

The petition which Grant's lawyer will mail to the governor tomorrow will not be simply a sentimental appeal based on the action in the Leopold-Loeb case, but the attorney said he would fight the facts in the case, that Walter Krauser under a death sentence with Grant for the murder of a policeman has repudiated his first statement implicating Grant and now says that Grant had nothing to do with the hold-up of a store in which the policeman was killed.

Grant says he was 19 when the crime was committed, the same age as Leopold and Loeb. Krauser says he was also only 19.

Grant is the son of a widow. He was reared in the districts near the stockyards. It is not charged that he fired the fatal shot, but is alleged to have participated in the robbery.

Announces Marriage Of Miss C. E. Crapster

Mrs. Mary O'Neal Crapster, of Taneytown, Maryland, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Catherine Elizabeth, to Dr. Maurice Cleveland Waltersdorf. Miss Crapster, an alumnus of Cornell University, is a niece of Dr. Walter H. and the Misses O'Neal, of Gettysburg, and is the youngest daughter of the late John J. and Mrs. Mary O'Neal Crapster.

The ceremony was performed in Washington, D. C., Sunday, by the bride's uncle, the Rev. Dr. John T. Huddle, pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, of Washington.

Doctor Waltersdorf is a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, and Princeton University, and is professor of political science and business law at Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Pa.

Both Doctor Waltersdorf and his bride are frequent visitors here. They will be at home after September 20 at Washington, Pa.

FATE OF BUTTS NOW RESTS WITH D. P. McPHERSON

Takes Case Under Advisement After Final Arguments This Morning.

Whether Charles S. Butt and John P. Butt, Jr., the district attorney, shall be suspended from their offices as attorneys-at-law now rests with President Judge D. P. McPherson.

At noon today, Judge McPherson took under advisement all papers and proceedings in connection with the matter growing out of the investigation by the county bar censors of certain irregularities in connection with a certain judgment in which the law firm of Butt and Butt were interested.

From briefs presented by the censors and by Walter K. Sharpe, Esq., of Chambersburg, who represented Charles S. Butt and his brother, John, in the final argument this morning, Judge McPherson will render a decision. The decision, which will be in writing, will be handed down at a subsequent term of court.

Judge McPherson's position in the matter is not dissimilar to that of Judge John R. Caverly, of Chicago, who was called to pass judgment on Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, youthful murderers and kidnapers. The local jurist must decide solely on the evidence before him as found in the findings of the censors and the testimony taken by them at several hearings, and on precedents in similar cases in this and other states.

McSherry's Address Features The feature of the two-hour argument session before Judge McPherson this morning was the address to the court of William McSherry, Esq., member of the censors committee.

Although he spoke for justice for Charles and John Butt, he asked the court to temper its verdict with mercy. His plea was, by far, the most eloquent heard in the drab old courtroom for many a session. Mr. McSherry surprising all who heard him with his eloquence and the manner in which he presented the censors' side of the case.

At one time his voice rose to a high pitch as he called upon the court for justice, while at another time his throat seemed to fill with sobs as he asked the court to temper its decision with mercy.

Spoke 15 Minutes Mr. McSherry spoke but fifteen minutes, while Mr. Sharpe, who preceded him before the bar, consumed an hour presenting the respondents' side of the matter up for argument.

Mr. McSherry, who is one of the oldest barristers in Adams county, said the task of the censors had been extremely unpleasant to all of them and that there was not one of the three who was not willing to join in asking the court to "give these young gentlemen a new chance."

After declaring that in his opinion the conclusions of the censors had been justified by the evidence taken by them, Mr. McSherry said he believed a "short suspension would be sufficient in this case."

Continuing, he said: "Butt and Butt have been unfaithful to their trusts; they have broken their oaths as attorneys and they have been false to the high confidence placed in them by men and women. If they had come into this court and showed a willingness to make restitution for the money of men and women which has been lost through their office, I would gladly join in asking the revocation of any punishment the court might impose."

Cites Precedents In concluding his remarkable address to the court, Mr. McSherry asked for leniency for John and Charles Butt, declaring, however, that precedents show that suspensions have been meted out to offending attorneys for periods ranging from six months to two years and even until full and complete restitution is made.

Asks Rules Dismissal Mr. Sharpe, in presenting a plea in mitigation of punishment for the respondents, Charles and John Butt, asked that the rule on the two young attorneys, that they be suspended from practice before the Adams county bar, be dismissed in view of the fact that both had only a clerical connection with the judgment wherein certain irregularities were discovered.

"The records," he went on, "fail to show that either Charles or John Butt received a dollar in the transaction of the revival of the certain judgment. Both men were acting in clerical positions only, although the revival shows alarming irregularities, due to the directions given by J. L. Butt, senior member of the firm."

LEGION 'CHIEF' COMMENDS '40-8'

Retiring National Commander John R. Quinn of American Legion Lauds "Play-ground" Body.

(By Associated Press.) St. Paul, Sept. 16.—The Forty and Eight, boxer society of the American Legion, was secondarily the playground of that organization when John R. Quinn, retiring national commander of the Legion, in his greetings Monday pointed out that in its care was the custody and comfort of hundreds of orphans of comrades who fell in battle.

Known chiefly as the "fun" side of the Legion, Mr. Quinn disclosed that its prime object was to keep the home of the orphaned or dependent child together and to that end each man had been assessed to provide a fund for that purpose.

"The Forty and Eight has seen that these children, who were paying in loss of opportunity doubly for their fathers' sacrifices and service to their country in time of war, were provided homes and comfort," Mr. Quinn said. "It has bent every effort to keep the child with the mother."

Worth While Members "A man must have done something worth while for the American Legion before he can gain admittance to the order of Forty and Eight," declared Mr. Quinn, and it "is proper that he should labor before he may frolic, proper that he should toil before he may disport himself in the playground society."

"How well the Forty and Eight enters into the spirit of the Legion is clear from the part which it has played in seeking a solution for the problems presented by the orphans of our dead comrades and by the dependent children of those comrades who, maimed and broken wrecks of war, can no longer care for their children. "Forty and Eight first saw those pitiful waifs of war, first saw with eyes that see to the heart of a problem and with souls that are stirred by a need to immediate effort to meet it. Forty and Eight perceived that here were 5,000 waifs who had by the cruel decrees of war been deprived of the tender hand of a father to guide their infant steps through life. Forty and Eight made a high resolve that such cruel, such bitter, such mocking injustice should not be.

Mother's Care "Forty and Eight realized that a mother's care is necessary to these unfortunate little ones. It bent every effort to keep the child with the mother. Where that could not be, under the grim force of necessity and by the stern logic of circumstances, homes were found for them, homes in proper surroundings, where some loving heart would strive to its utmost to make good to them the place of the father and mother that were gone. "Today the Legion is erecting children's billets to care for these children, where the home cannot be kept together and proper foster homes cannot be provided. These billets breathe the very air of home. The Legion is determined that these children shall not be punished by lack of privileges because their fathers died for their country. It will see that the cruel blows of fate are warded and tempered insofar as they may. The disabled veterans of the war hold first place in the thought of the Legion. Next after them come these helpless children."

capacity; the industry has enjoyed a remarkable development with the advent of giant refrigerator plants, and brine freezers, which will freeze 120 quarts in twelve minutes, taking the place of salt and ice.

"Ice cream today is no longer a luxury; it is a food," Mr. Hershey said. "One quart of ice cream has food qualities equal to one and one-fourth pounds of beef steak, 14 eggs, one and one-half pounds of beans, four and one-half pounds of peas or ten and three-quarters pounds of tomatoes."

Gobs Of Food

"I have heard of lots of people eating a quart of ice cream at one sitting, but I have never heard of any one eating 14 eggs or ten and three-quarter pounds of tomatoes at one time." Elaborate equipment for the testing of all ingredients entering into the manufacture of ice cream has been established in modern plants, Mr. Hershey said, and the utmost care is exercised at all times to make certain that the product of the ice cream plant is 100 per cent pure and whole.

All members of the club were in attendance at the meeting. Secretary George Boehner read an invitation from the Waynesboro club to attend a "ladies night" meeting at the Anthony Wayne Hotel, in Waynesboro, Thursday evening, September 25. Known chiefly as the "fun" side of the Legion, Mr. Quinn disclosed that its prime object was to keep the home of the orphaned or dependent child together and to that end each man had been assessed to provide a fund for that purpose.

"The Forty and Eight has seen that these children, who were paying in loss of opportunity doubly for their fathers' sacrifices and service to their country in time of war, were provided homes and comfort," Mr. Quinn said. "It has bent every effort to keep the child with the mother."

Worth While Members "A man must have done something worth while for the American Legion before he can gain admittance to the order of Forty and Eight," declared Mr. Quinn, and it "is proper that he should labor before he may frolic, proper that he should toil before he may disport himself in the playground society."

"How well the Forty and Eight enters into the spirit of the Legion is clear from the part which it has played in seeking a solution for the problems presented by the orphans of our dead comrades and by the dependent children of those comrades who, maimed and broken wrecks of war, can no longer care for their children. "Forty and Eight first saw those pitiful waifs of war, first saw with eyes that see to the heart of a problem and with souls that are stirred by a need to immediate effort to meet it. Forty and Eight perceived that here were 5,000 waifs who had by the cruel decrees of war been deprived of the tender hand of a father to guide their infant steps through life. Forty and Eight made a high resolve that such cruel, such bitter, such mocking injustice should not be.

Mother's Care "Forty and Eight realized that a mother's care is necessary to these unfortunate little ones. It bent every effort to keep the child with the mother. Where that could not be, under the grim force of necessity and by the stern logic of circumstances, homes were found for them, homes in proper surroundings, where some loving heart would strive to its utmost to make good to them the place of the father and mother that were gone. "Today the Legion is erecting children's billets to care for these children, where the home cannot be kept together and proper foster homes cannot be provided. These billets breathe the very air of home. The Legion is determined that these children shall not be punished by lack of privileges because their fathers died for their country. It will see that the cruel blows of fate are warded and tempered insofar as they may. The disabled veterans of the war hold first place in the thought of the Legion. Next after them come these helpless children."

Alfred E. Smith, Governor of New York, definitely has told his friends he will not again run for the office. Personal finances, he said are too low. Lord Beaverbrook, through his newspaper, Daily Standard in London, has kicked up considerable of a furor over the acceptance of 20,000 pounds' worth of stock in a biscuit company by Ramsay MacDonald, Premier of Great Britain. Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation of Labor of the British Trade Union convention, said on his return from England that labor unions in that country are quite efficient and do no tag behind Americans. Malcolm MacDonald, son of Ramsay MacDonald, British Premier, is in the United States to take a course at the University of Pittsburgh.

POTATO CROP IS REPORTED GOOD FEW AUTOES HAVE PROPER LIGHTING

Pennsylvania's potato crop this year is expected to yield 24,903,000 bushels, a decrease of 5 per cent over last year, according to the federal state crop reporting service.

As a result of the decrease in production and an increase in the production of the Wisconsin crop, Pennsylvania will likely drop to sixth place as a potato producer, while Wisconsin goes fifth.

While the Pennsylvania crop declined to some extent, the reduction was not as great as usual in August. Potato fields in Potter and other northern tier counties are in a thrifty condition, but in other sections of the state, the poorest prospects being in central, southwestern and western potato fields.

In York county and the rest of the district east of the Susquehanna river and as far north as Luzerne county the crop is slightly above the average. States from which Pennsylvania markets get the bulk of the late potatoes show decreased production this year.

Salt Lake City.—The remains of another dinosaur, pronounced the second largest yet found, have been unearthed in the Jensen, Utah, fossil field by Professor Earl Douglas, of the Carnegie Institute. The skeleton is estimated to weigh between five and six tons and the leg bones of the prehistoric animal are 12 to 13 feet in length.

BUT Can All Be Best?

How can every boiler be the best boiler on earth? Ever heard a fellow who had boilers to sell admit anyone had one any better? We don't claim the Burnham is the best on earth. But we do know, that its long fire travel makes a short coal bill.

There are about 10,000 new home owners each year, who like that short coal bill. Instead of swearing at the coal dealer they swear by their Burnham and the Cosy Comfort Heat it gives. Send for booklet called Letters To and Fro. It's an eye opener on coal saving.

SEA HAWK

The last that Sir Oliver saw of Captain Leigh was on the morning on which they set out from the reeking Lisbon gale. Thereafter throughout that weary march each knew the other to be somewhere in that wretched regiment of galley-slaves; but they never came face to face again.

In Cadiz Sir Oliver spent a month in a vast enclosed space that was open to the sky, but nevertheless of an indescribable foulness, a place of filth, disease, and suffering beyond human conception.

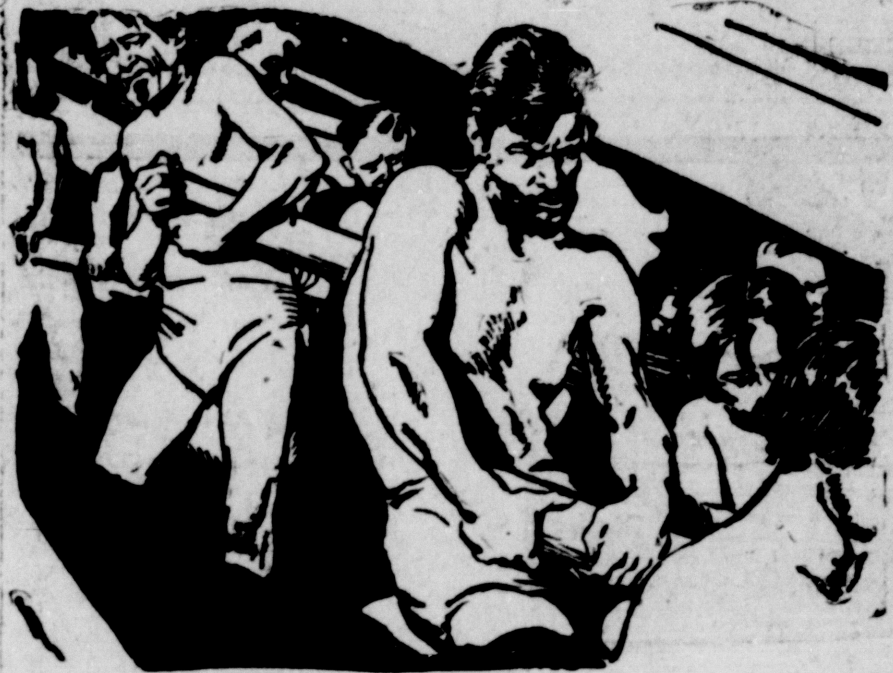

At the end of that month he was one of those picked out by an officer who was manning a galley that was to convey the infants to Naples. He owed this to his vigorous constitution which had successfully withstood the infections of that mephitic place of torments, and to the fine thrusts which the officer pummeled and felt as though he were acquiring a beast of burden— which, indeed, is precisely what he was doing.

The galley to which our gentleman was dispatched was a vessel of fifty oars, each manned by seven men. They were seated upon a sort of staircase that followed the

He was sparingly fed upon well-viled biscuit and vile messes of tallowy rice, and to drink he was given lukewarm water that was often stale, saving that sometimes when the spell of rowing was more than usually protracted the boat-swains would thrust lumps of bread sodden in wine into the mouths of the toiling slaves to sustain them.

The scurvy broke out on that voyage, and there were other diseases among the rowers, to say nothing of the festering sores begotten of the friction of the bench which were common to all, and which each must endure as best he could. With the slave whose disease conquered him or who, reaching the limit of his endurance, permitted himself to swoon, the boatswain had a short way. The diseased were swung overboard; the swooning were dragged out upon the gangway or bridge and flogged there to revive them; if they did not revive they were flogged on until they were a horrid bleeding pulp which was then heaved into the sea.

Once or twice when they stood to windward the smell of the slaves being wafted abaft and reaching the fine gilded poop where the infant and her attendants traveled, the helmsmen were ordered to put about, and for long weary hours the slaves would hold the galley in position, backing her up gently slope of the oar, running from the gangway in the vessel's middle down to the shallow bulwarks.

"Anon Sir Oliver became hardened . . . to that unspeakable existence, that living death of the galley-slave."

The place allotted to Sir Oliver was that next the gangway. Here, stark naked as when he was born, he was chained to the bench, and in those chains he remained without a single moment's intermission for six whole months.

Between himself and the hard timbers of his seat there was naught but a flimsy and dirty sheepskin. From end to end the bench was not more than ten feet in length, whilst the distance separating it from the next one was a bare four feet. In that cramped space of ten feet by four, Sir Oliver and his six comrades had their miserable existence, working and sleeping—for they slept in their chains at the oar without sufficient room in which to lie at stretch.

Anon Sir Oliver became hardened and inured to that unspeakable existence, that living death of the galley-slave. But that first long voyage to Naples was ever to remain the most terrible experience of his life. For spells of six or eight endless hours at a time and on one occasion for no less than ten hours did he pull at his oar without a single moment's pause. With one foot on the stretcher, the other on the bench in front of him, grasping his part of that appallingly heavy fifteen-foot oar, he would bend his back to thrust forward—and upward so to clear the shoulders of the groaning, sweating slaves in front of him—then he would lift the end so as to bring the blade down to the water, and having gripped he would rise from his seat to throw his full weight into the pull, and so fall back with clank of chain upon the groaning bench to swing forward once more, and so on until his senses reeled, his sight became blurred, his mouth parched, and his whole body a living, straining ache. Then would come the sharp, fierce cut of the boatswain's whip to revive energies that flagged however little, and sometimes to leave a bleeding stripe upon his naked back.

Thus day in day out, now broiled and blistered by the pitiless southern sun, now chilled by the night dews whilst he took his cramped and unrefreshing rest, indescribably filthy and disheveled, his hair and beard matted with endless sweat, unwashed save by the rains which in that season were all too rare, choked almost by the stench of his miserable comrades and infested by filthy crawling things begotten of decaying sheepskins and Heaven alone knows what other foulness of that floating hell.

against the wind so as not to lose way.

The number that died in the first week of that voyage amounted to close upon a quarter of the total. But there were reserves in the prow, and these were drawn upon to fill the empty places. None but the fittest could survive this terrible ordeal.

Of these was Sir Oliver, and of these, too, was his immediate neighbor at the oar, a stalwart, powerful, impassive, uncompromising young Moor, who accepted his fate with a stoicism that aroused Sir Oliver's admiration. For days they exchanged no single word together, their religious marking them out, they thought, for enemies despite the fact that they were fellows in misfortune. But one evening when an aged Jew who had collapsed in morbid unconsciousness was dragged out and flogged in the usual manner, Sir Oliver was filled with such a passion at all this inhumanity and at the cold pitilessness of it all that aloud he cursed all Christians in general and Spaniards in particular.

He turned to the Moor beside him, and addressing him in Spanish:

"Hell," he said, "was surely made for Christians, which may be why they seek to make earth like it."

Fortunately for him the creak and dip of the oars, the clank of the chains, and the lashes beating sharply upon that wretched Jew were sufficient to muffle his voice. But the Moor heard him, and his dark eyes gleamed.

"There is a furnace, seven times heated awaiting them, O my brother," he replied, with a confidence which seemed to be the source of his present stoicism. "But art thou, then, not a Christian?"

He spoke in that queer language of the North African seaboard, that lingua franca, which sounded like some French dialect interspersed with Arabic words. But Sir Oliver made out his meaning almost by intuition. He answered him in Spanish again, since although the Moor did not appear to speak it, yet it was plain he understood it.

"I renounce from this hour," he answered in his passion. "I will acknowledge no religion in whose name such things are done."

He growled an obscene oath as he heaved the great oar forward.

"A Christian, I?" he cried, and laughed for the first time since he had been chained to that bench of agony. "I am done with Christians, and Christianity."

"Verily we are God's, and to Him shall we return," said the Moor.

PROPERTY VALUES GAIN

Erie—Land values have been increased substantially here in the triennial valuation assessment which the municipal board of city assessors has completed. Valuations of property in some of the business districts practically have been doubled. It is estimated that the total assessed valuation of taxable property, fixed at approximately $120,000,000 in the 1923 assessment, will reach $130,000,000 when the triennial revision is completed.

Like a postage stamp, a man's value depends on his ability to stick to a thing till he gets there.

DISCOVERIES MAY LEAD TO OLD CITY

Ely, Nev.—Scientists of the University of Nevada, in an exploration party headed by Governor J. C. Scruggs, recently have read again the pages of the past in caverns near the famed Lehman Caves and found them rich in archaeological lore.

Figuring found on the rock wall of a cavern, said to be undeniably Aztec, leads Dr. B. F. Schappelle, archaeologist of the university, to believe the discovery one of the most important in recent years. The finding of pottery in the caves, also moves the pottery line about 300 miles further north than any ever before found.

Dr. Schappelle and Dr. Peter Frandsen, biologist, have employed six men to assist in the work of excavating. The party found it difficult in places to discern the hieroglyphics, as cloud-bursts had washed much debris into the caverns. Hieroglyphics resembling both Aztec and Egyptian work have been found and members of the party are optimistic in predicting that a veritable underground city will be discovered.

A strong flow of water was discovered 90 feet below the level of Baker Creek, a live angleworms were found at a depth of 100 feet. A burial cave with an opening four by six feet at the surface, leading to a large underground room, containing five human skeletons, the bones badly disintegrated due to extreme age, was located.

PLAN CROW SHOOT

Lock Haven—County-wide interest is being shown in the crow shoot which the Lock Haven Fish and Game association is sponsoring. The shoot began September 1 and will continue until December 15 at which time awards will be made the two contestants killing the largest numbers of crows. The county has been districted and members of the association will act as judges in the various districts.

TOBACCO SPOILS TASTE FOR WINE

Strasburg—Thirsty Americans who visit a famous old-fashioned wine restaurant in this city, which has a cellar that is known to connoisseurs all over Europe, are frequently surprised at not being able to obtain vintages which had been recommended to them by friends. The proprietor is an artist in blending food and wines and will not serve his choice wines to persons who order cocktails and begin smoking before their wines are served.

He insists that the cocktail and all other mixed drinks are a nuisance which should be confined to restaurants and bars which do not specialize in fine wines and will not waste his precious cellar on men and women who spoil their taste for delicate wine by mixing tobacco up with their dinner.

A little sorrow, a little pleasure, Fate metes us the due of this measure. That holds the date of all of us. Swinburne.

FRANCE GETTING GERMANY'S TRADE

Dresden—The United States has again taken the lead over all other foreign countries as Germany's best customer for china, but the business has not resumed the prewar proportions by any means. The English, Swiss and Dutch, formerly among Germany's best customers for the china output, are being supplied chiefly from France at lower prices than prevail here.

The edpression in the export trade is said by foreign buyers to be due to the excessive prices and high freight rates which have resulted in buyers seeking goods either in France, Japan or other countries which can undersell the Germans.

THE MOTORMORON

The Motormoron: Another word has been forced into the vernacular by the stress of the times. "Motormoron" is expressive. It connotes everything despicable in anybody who abuses the privileges of driving a car. A motormoron is more than a speeder. He is one who deliberately endangers the lives of others, knowing the risk he is running, but feeling an insane contempt, growing out of the grandeur delusion, for everybody but himself. Nobody wants to be considered a moron. Its true meaning is a person of adult years who has attained only the mental development of a child of 12. To be thought a moron and a motormoron at that is to be handicapped for life. The way to avoid being classified as a motormoron is to avoid all suspicion by abstaining from all the wrong acts a moron commits.

LUCK

You may call it luck if you wish to, but luck is a fickle jade, And never by luck does a lazy man come into the skill of a trader; And never by luck does an artist paint or a wise man wisdom learn, For the thing called luck by the foolish tongues is the thing that the brave must earn.

You may call it luck if you wish to, but luck never fashions a dream, Never sinks a well where the oil runs deep or bridges a mountain stream, And luck never plays with a lazy man or a careless man or a fool, 'Tis the man who fishes the most who takes the big fish from the pool.

You may call it luck if you wish to, but luck never paints a scene, Never writes a book or a song to sing, never thinks of a new machine; It may whisper a hint to a thinking man or a man who will care to try, But the man who won't or the man who can't, good luck goes dancing by.

You may call it luck if you wish to, but the man who wins the game By a lucky stroke or a lucky break has been fighting just the same; And whether it's oil, or gold or art, or catching a bass or pike, If it's luck you want you must put yourself in the place where luck can strike.

ARTURO ALESSANDRI

A group of young army officers at Santiago forced Arturo Alessandri, President of Chile, to reorganize his Cabinet according to their desires, but declined to accept when he also tendered his resignation. It was announced, however, he will not be permitted to attend official functions generally demanding the President's presence.

For a cool and efficient motor

PROVE it yourself! Fill your crank-case with high-heat-resisting Atlantic Motor Oil. Then give your motor the severest operating test you know—driving through dense traffic in low gear; up steep hills in second; over long stretches without stop. Atlantic won't break down!

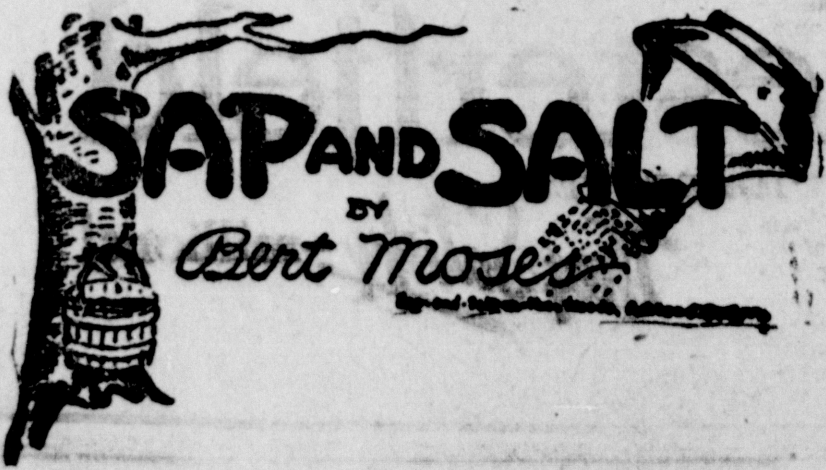

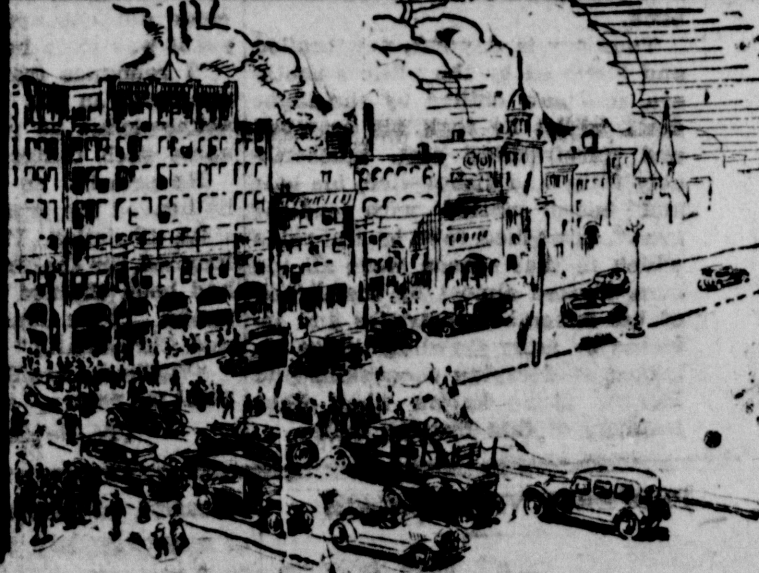

You yourself can tell: By the way your motor holds its power—by the way Atlantic keeps the pistons sealed; by the same quietness your motor has at the end of a run that it had at the start; by the "feel" of the oil before and after it has become heated.

The extraordinary high-heat resistance of this oil is a recent achievement of the Atlantic refineries. Use it and know the full meaning of motor dependability, efficiency and longevity.

A proper type of oil for every car—Atlantic Medium, Heavy, Special Heavy and Polarine. Dealer's Atlantic Chart tells which to use.

Wealthy Marriage
Finally the chance of a wealthy marriage gave promise of release for the young man from his financial troubles. He informed the money lender of his good luck and obtained more money.

The money lender told the young officer that he planned a fine wedding present for the occasion of his marriage. Misinterpreting the man's meaning and taking it to be a threat that the notes would be presented for payment or protest, the young officer foresaw himself ruined and resolved upon desperate measures. The money lender was found dead in his own house a few days later, and the crime was traced to the borrower. The police discovered among the old man's effects a package neatly tied with ribbon containing all of the other's notes. An inscription showed that this was to have been the wedding gift.

Evidence of the young officer's guilt was clear and he was exiled to Siberia. Old residents of Siberia tell many stories of his remorse-stricken life, which has just ended in penury and misery.

EXILE'S DEATH RECALLS TRAGEDY

How Old Money-Lender Was Misunderstood And Then Slain By Officer He Befriended.

Harbin, China.—An old man died recently in a small village of eastern Siberia whose name evokes among Russians memories of a tragedy, the poignancy of which is unsurpassed in the annals of that wild and gloomy land.

St. Petersburg was the scene and the time the late eighties. The principal actor was a young officer of one of the most brilliant regiments of the Czar's guard. He was accomplished and highly connected and a general favorite, but the life led by him and a majority of his comrades proved too fast for the resources of a diminished and badly managed estate. The young officer turned to the money lenders who preyed upon men of his kind. One was found who was willing to advance money against his promissory notes, and who never failed to respond until the total debt

Milk Production Cost $2.22 Per Hundred

Some valuable figures in the cost of keeping a cow have been announced by H. S. Sloat, the Pennsylvania State College extension cost accountant in Lancaster county.

If Adams county dairymen received less than $2.22 per hundred pounds for their milk in 1923 they lost money as compared with Lancaster production costs, as Sloat reached that average cost after studying sixteen herds.

It cost Lancaster farmers an average of $201.80 last year to keep one mature cow. In addition to the milk return, "Bossy" gave credit in manure, calves, etc., of over $50, making her net maintenance cost just $151.06. In the sixteen herds the average production of milk was 6845 pounds of 3.84 butterfat content.

Hogging-Off Corn Pays In Producing Pork

"There is no guess-work connected with the fact that it pays farmers to allow hogs to harvest a part of the corn crop where corn is the principal food," says Dr. H. H. Havner, extension swine specialist at Pennsylvania State College.

The "hogging-off corn" season is about here and the county agent urges all Adams county farmers who can do it, to follow this economical method of fattening for the fall market. The pigs that do best in the corn field are thin, active pigs weighing from 90 to 125 pounds that have been developed on good pasture with a good growing ration. Following is a good rule to remember in determining how many pigs to turn into a field or how much corn to supply a bunch of pigs.

Nine average pigs from 90 to 125 miles will clean up an acre of corn in about as many days as there are bushels of corn per acre and gain about a pound and a half per head a day. The pigs should be allowed a portion of a field large enough for them to clean up in from two to four weeks. Wire fencing will keep them off the other part of the field. Protein feeds should be supplied while pigs are in the field. Straining Milk.

That farmers in Adams county will do well to use every care in producing a high quality milk is the opinion of L. W. Morley, dairy specialist at the Pennsylvania State College. One should keep in mind that milk is a food and use every precaution to keep it clean. However, with the best of care some foreign material, dust and dirt, will find its way into the milk and should be removed immediately.

The best strainer to use is a cotton filter as it is the most efficient and is not expensive. These strainers should be used but once and then destroyed. If cotton flannel or other cloth strainers are used they should be thoroughly washed and boiled for at least five minutes each day.

TEACHER'S MEETING

Bloomsburg—Monthly meetings of all Columbia county school teachers are to be held in Bloomsburg again this year. The teachers meet on Saturdays and discuss the work for the coming month, as well as problems which have arose in the various districts. Usually a member of the faculty of the State Normal School or a member of the State Department of Public Instruction addresses the meeting.

Murder Charge Fails To Move Her.

Mrs. Thomas Boyce declared she knew all about her husband's attentions to another woman before their marriage and declared a charge of murder against him following death of another admirer of "the other woman" was false when Boyce was arrested in Detroit. She said her husband fought to save his own life when Clyde Kellar resented previous attentions to Mrs. Arline Ballinger, and that Kellar was slain in the struggle which followed.

Defies Age By Using Ordinary Buttermilk to Beautify Complexion

This Pretty Girl Tells Druggists Not to Take Anyone's Money Unless This Delightful New Vanishing Cream Shows a Decided Improvement.

Buttermilk Cream creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that whilst it turns the dull, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream.—adv.

CHILDREN WITH RICKETS GROW WELL AND STRONG

If you are the parent of a child who is so unfortunate as to have rickets, you are advised to try McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets for 30 days and note the results.

It's hard for children to take vile cod liver oil—the new method — McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets—sugar coated and easy to take, is much better.

No matter how weak, thin, puny or underdeveloped your child may be, these tablets will probably help it. If they don't, you can get your money back at Peoples Drug Store, P. W. Stallsmith or any live druggist—60 tablets 60 cents. Be sure you get McCoy's—the original and genuine.—adv.

We've told you that our new Lestz suits are beautiful—now we want to illustrate how really fascinating they are.

Suppose you come in and try on a few coats—

Within 10 minutes after you have said "hello" you will find one suit that hits you right where you live—and you won't be happy until it is living with you.

Style—Man Alive—the new models are alive with it!
